

Randy Jones
Vice President, Products and Marketing
ESCO Division of Weir

For the past two decades, Randy Jones has been a key driver of growth of our core product lines. Most recently, Randy successfully led our North American (NA) Sales region as general manager. Under his leadership, the region achieved significant sales growth of Ultralok, construction attachments, oil sands and industrial products.

Randy was appointed the role of vice president of products and marketing for the ESCO division of Weir in 2019. Randy provides strategic leadership of our products and marketing teams, while promoting collaborative partnership across engineering, product development, and our global regions to drive successful execution of our initiatives. He also owns the vision and execution of our product roadmap, while helping to drive profitable growth and customer demand for our global, premiere brand.

He is an experienced, results-driven leader, who brings a depth of knowledge to this role about our markets, brand and products. Randy has a Bachelor of Business Administration in Economics from Baylor University.
